

Mitacs 网上申请指南（英文）

The steps for the student application are as follows:

Step 1: Students create a user account by clicking on “Student Registration” on the main page.

Step 2: Once they’ve created their account, they will log into the main application webpage where they should fill out the information in the three stages of the profile panel on the right-hand of the screen (see picture below). The first stage is completion the student’s profile information. Once done, the student can move on to selecting the project(s) that he or she would like to apply for by clicking on “research projects”. The final stage is for them to notify their referring professors, by clicking on the “Notify References” button.

Step 3: The referring professors will receive an automated message that will provide an email address and template (if they require) for submission of their letter of reference. These letters of reference, as well as the student’s transcripts are provided to the Canadian host professor so that he or she can ensure that the student is suitable for the project.

It displays three status messages, each with a checkmark icon: 'Your application profile is complete.', 'Your selection of research projects meets the criteria.', and a table of 'YOUR SELECTED PROJECTS' with two entries: 'globalink@mitacs.ca' and 'jmawby@mitacs.ca', both with 'Email Sent' status. Below the table is a 'NOTIFY REFERENCES' section with explanatory text and a 'REVIEW REFERENCES' button.
